

Watton Society

January meeting report

The members of Watton Society queued up on the landing jetty with nervous apprehension, ready to board the ship. The Titanic? As it turned out, we should not have been nervous. The evenings talk by Genista Davidson was about Ocean Liners especially those of the Art Deco period. The history of Cunard ships specifically, the different class of travel, dressing for the occasion i.e. ball gowns and dinner suits, and quality of service. So after a very stable crossing and a most enjoyable trip it was bon voyage and hope to see you all at the next meeting which will be on Wednesday 21st March at 7.45pm in the Christian Community Centre. Watton, when the speaker will be Simon White talking about "Gardens of East Anglia"
